

Tuition and Fees

Full time has a minimum of 38 hours per week. Part time has a minimum of 25 hours per week. If I take a day off in any given week, you will not be charged a minimum for the week. You will only be charged for the actual hours that you are here. However, if you also take a day off within that same week, you will be charged for 8 hours for your day if you are full time, and 5 hours if you are part time .

All of my days off, including vacations and holidays, are unpaid except for Christmas Day and Thanksgiving Day. If these two days fall on a weekday, I will be paid 8 hours of holiday pay if you are full time, and 5 hours if you are part time. I feel this is rather reasonable. I will inform you as soon as possible of days needed off, usually at least two weeks if possible, and at least one month in advance for vacations. I will also assist you in finding alternate child care. I have set up an alternate for these occasions who is also a licensed provider.

Families with more than one child enrolled will qualify for a 10% discount for the oldest child, and a 5% discount for each additional child.

I require a two week written notice in advance of your vacations. You are allowed five days of unpaid vacation per year if you are full time, and three for part time. This means that you may take five or three separate days off, or all at once, that you will not have to pay for or will not count for your weekly minimum. I prefer, however, that you take it all at once. You may also take three sick days for full time and one sick day for part time per calendar year with no notice.

After a two week trial period, I must have a two week written notice, or two weeks of your minimum weekly amount upon leaving Name of Daycare.

If you are more than 1/2 hour late to pick up your child and you have failed to inform me in the morning when you bring your child to daycare, you will be billed an extra five dollars per half hour. And please, don't tell me you'll be late, ask if it is ok. If you fail to pick your child up by 6:00pm and you have failed to inform me in advance, your child will be fed supper and you will be charged an additional $2.50
